CLEVER G. H. HENRY.

Posed as a Pennsylvania Railroad Purchasing Agent.

Obtained Several Thousand Dollars as Commissions.

tesy.

He immediately ordered varnishes of various kinds for use in the shops of the road, and took a statement of his purchases as he made them.

After an hour's hard work on the part of Mr. Henry and rather an easy time on the sale-man's part-for the purchaser was easy to please—it was found he had ordered $7.000 worth of varnish. He then i equested that the "stuff" be sent to the P insylvania Company's storehouse in Jersey City the following morning.

As he was leaving the warehouse he took out his notes and did quite a lot of apparent figuring. Then he returned to the office to see Mr. Raymond S. Perrin, saying he desired a private conver-

rin. saying he desired a private convermation.

After making a number of apologies, he mildly intimated that as he was the only person who could say where and when to get supplies for the road he represented, it would be to the advantage of the firm to do as was generally done in all such cases, namely, to allow him a commission.

Mr. Perrin was not surprised at this demand, put, as it was, in a very gentle way. It is usual to allow commissions on large orders, and the sale of 17,000 worth of goods, in so casy a manner, was certainly ao small matter. Accordingly, Mr. Henry was told he might call the following day, by which time the goods were to be delivered, and that he would then be properly treated.

Talking the matter over latter with lift. Payson, his partner, Mr. Perrin beranded his commission so soon. He culled up the Pennsylvania Company's effices in Philadelphia, and was referred to the offices in Jersey Chy.

There he was informed that no such

Mr. Morris had also heard of Henry, rad after a short talk asked him to step into his private office.

He then telephoned the International Pteemship Agency, of which Henry had tooken, and was requested by its officers to try and detain Henry.

He had already been detained an hour, having come there at 2 o'clock P. M. Mr. Morris asked Henry for an order and got one on the Pennsylvania Railroad, signed G. H. Henry.

Morris told the purchaser that a man had been falsely representing himself as the Pennsylvania agent. Henry said he had heard so, and would like to catch the man.

After holding him until 5:30 o'clock, Mr. Morris asked Henry if he would not step around the corner to see his (Morris's) lawyer, who was endeavoring to catch the man who was representing himself as agent in Mr. Henry's place.

Henry coolly consented, and fell into the trap. They met Policeman Kehoe, of the Leonard street squad, on the way and Mr. Henry was turned over to the policeman.

It was learned to-day that when Henry visited the establishment of George Harvick loads of excelsion across on the ferry. The order also demanded ferry tickets for the return of the trucks and men.

morning G. H. Henry, whom the Superliatendent of the New York division of the Pennsylvania Railroad cails the "prince of gentlemen swindlers."

He was charged in the first place with falsely representing himself as purchasing agent for the Pennsylvania Railroad, and with having falsely obtained money commissions on several thousand dollars' worth of goods ordered from several large firms in this city.

His methods were unique and were carried out with all the nerve of an accomplished "beat." He is about thirty-five years old and has the air of a business man and gentleman. With his slik hat and nobby overcoat he impressed those he came in contact with, and promptly applied that "soft and silken" touch, which such men generally utilize in their precarious means of living.

On Tuesday afternoon Mr. Henry walked into the warehouse of Perrin, Payson & Co., at 75 Little West Twelfth street, and passing to the firm's offices inquired for Mr. Raymond & Perrin.

Alvin West, formerly of the Kentucky State Guards.

The decision sets forth that a State militiaman is not pensionable unless his disability was incurred in the line of duty while actually in the service of the United States, under the authority of the President.

Section 4,833 of the Revised Statutes is held not to apply to the case, as he was neither wounded nor injured in battle with rebeis or indians, and because he had not prosecuted his claim to a successful issue prior to July 4, 184.

Judge Reynolds, in disposing of the case, rules that a State militiaman under orders from United States officers is not thereby in the service of the United States, and a military organization is not in the United States service unless it is made a part of the army by being ordered or mustered into the service by the President.
